IMPARTIALITY POLICY

CEIL is committed to providing impartial inspection / certification services to all its customers. The decisions of CEIL are based on objective evidences of conformity or non-conformity. They are not influenced by other interests or third parties. They are independent of any pressures, influences of commercial, financial or any other kind. All inspection / certification services are discharged avoiding conflict of interest and maintaining independence at the policy, organization and operating levels.

This policy is implemented by:-

- Developing, installing, maintaining and updating systems and procedures to identify and control impartiality related risks, COI and independence issues at all levels.
- Implementing mitigation measures in the organization and operating levels across all functions that include a combination of prohibitions, restrictions and declarations.
- Training all personnel engaged in inspection / certification services on this policy and its implementation.
